F. Answer these questions according to the passage below. (Aşağıda verilen soruları parçaya göre cevaplayınız.)

Over the past 40 years, kids' consumption in the country has increased dramatically. In the average family of two parents and two children, spending on toys and children's clothing has more than tripled, and spending on sweets, ice-cream and soft drinks has risen by one-third. Research has recently found that spending is around £3,000 per child per year. The growth in spending reflects higher living standards, but it has been boosted by the efforts of the advertising industry. Campaigns directed straight at children account for much advertising expenditure. Most children in the country over eight now have a television in the bedroom; on average, they watch 900 hours of TV a year, which is more than the 750 hours the average child is actually being taught in school. Thus, a child could see at least 10,000 commercials a year.

- 21) The average family 40 years ago
- bought more children's clothes and books and less ice-cream and candy
 - watched more TV commercials than today
 - had a higher living standard than today
 - didn't have a television set
 - spent far less on children's products
- 22) One reason that children's consumption in the country has risen is that
- parents tend to have fewer kids now
 - more kids are involved in advertising campaigns
 - researchers advise parents to spend £3000 per year
 - the living standard has risen in the country over the years
 - children have much more money themselves nowadays
- 23) The author concludes that the fact that most children over 8 now have their own television set means
- children prefer watching television to going to school
 - children are not as healthy as they were
 - more children are missing school in order to watch television
 - an increasing number of commercials are being watched by children
 - children spend a lot of time away from their parents

Answer these questions according to the passage below. (Aşağıda verilen soruları parçaya göre cevaplayınız.)

Less and less candy has been sold since the 1950s for a variety of reasons. First of all, there is much competition from other kinds of snacks. A greater interest in health and nutrition has also tended to lower demand. Nutritionists warn against eating too much refined sugar and suggest eating fruit and other more nutritious snacks instead. Dentists warn of the potential harm to teeth by sugar. And with the slim look increasingly fashionable, people have naturally tended to shy away from overindulgence in sweets because they are very fattening. Nevertheless, the candy industry is still very large. In 1990, United States' annual sales totalled more than 8 billion dollars. The company ranked first in sales in the United States was Herr Foods, which first began mass-producing milk-chocolate bars in 1894.

24) The passage is mainly about..... .

- a. the various factors which have affected the decrease in the consumption of candy
- b. how health professionals have caused the decline of the candy Industry
- c. the gradual decline and ruin of the Herr Food company because of the modern eating habits
- d. how people's health in general has improved since the 1950s
- e. the reasons why people should not eat refined sugar, such as that in candy

25) One of the reasons mentioned why people eat less candy now than they did before the 1950s is that..... .

- a. they try to avoid eating things in public
- b. many people have become very overweight
- c. there is more choice available nowadays
- d. they have already damaged their teeth
- e. people are generally eating less than before

26) The author points out that Herr Foods

- a. was the highest selling candy company in 1894
- b. had the biggest share of the US candy market in 1990
- c. introduced chocolate as a new product in 1894
- d. produces the best chocolate bars in America
- e. opened the earliest candy factory in the USA

Answer these questions according to the passage below. (Aşağıda verilen soruları parçaya göre cevaplayınız.)

In the past, most companies were family affairs, owned by different members of the same family. Some of them still are, but now many companies have survived the founding families and grown into big organisations which have smaller, or subsidiary companies. These companies work in other countries to form multi-national groups, such as the big oil companies like Shell or Esso, and the big car manufacturers like Ford. The big multi-national companies each control more money than many countries do. These companies only exist to make profits for their owners, or shareholders.
